> It's So Easy (And Beautiful) To Entertain With Fruit

Have you caught on to the new way with fruit? It makes a patrician party every time. The idea is to "decorate" with fruit—and eat the fruit, too. Pictured, for instance, is the centerpiece and theme of a lovely buffet. Elegant as the fruit centerpiece may look, if you'll analyze it, you'll see that it is just clusters of bananas in the sizes usually found at supermarkets, plus a whole pineapple, and a couple of other fruits merely placed casually in the bowl. The bowl itself is important in this new trend. Flat ones allow for easier arrangement of the fruit, and most important of all, they allow for easy eating of the fruit without tumbling down an elaborate arrangement.

bling down an elaborate arrangement.

A fruit centerpiece like this is meant to eat. Bananas, you know, have important vitamins; minerals and high food energy, yet a medium banana has only 88 calories. Isn't that good to remember in calorie-crowded festive menus? One of the smartest, simplest and most refreshing of dishes for entertaining is a handsome fresh fruit salad such as the one illustrated. It is made with just slices of fresh orange and luscious wedges of ripe banana, resting on a bed of crisp salad greens. Serve with the dressing of your choice, and guests will bless you for the beauty you bring them. A fruit salad is as refreshing to the glance as it is to the palate. Quick, clever, time-saving, beautiful, is the banana way of decoration and menu-planning when company is expected.

A group of voyageurs in bright woolen shirts burst from the Beaver Palace, singing with their arms around each other as they stumbled into the street. Though Rhoda's French was the formal, precise kind she had learned in Mrs. Upjohn's Seminary, she caught enough of the sense of the song to make her ears burn. And yet, there was a ringing.

Shandy went on to the conference table.

Randall had a reputation for doing business quickly, and to his our rendezvous before our own pack train?"

The change in Bogard's expression was remarkable. He had been emulating his superior's attitude by looking bored, but now his fleshy features came alive and you could almost see the dolar signs sparkling in his eyes.

draw the song to make her ears burn. And yet, there was a ringing, jolly lift to the tune.

Such things she must get used to, she told herself. She had already learned that foul language shocked her but did not outrage short that the bold stares of men disturbed her but did not terrify her, and that coarseness was not, of itself, evil. In fact, much of what she had learned, and was learning, might well be excellent training for the wife of a missionary.

Across one end of the Beaver Palace ran a balcony guardeed by curving ironowrk. It was on this elevation so simply but effectively removed from the rougher classes of humanity that gentlemen were wont to sit and drink and discuss business affairs while viewing from a safe vantage the frequent disturbances that swept across the main floor below.

There were, to be sure, more elegant places in the city to drink whisky and talk business, but perhaps shadiness begets shadiness; at any rate, deals which greatly affected hundreds of men in the distant Rocky Mountains, men who would never be allowed up the stellers to the balcony, were dronged in the mountains. You have noticed the biggest crowds in food stores which advertise in their local paper. That's true anywhere. There's a reason for that. They can offer the best values because they know the newspaper will tell their customers, That brings still more customers. That enables them to "turn over" their merchandise at a faster clip. Because they sell more, then can offer better values. Their values bring more customers. It's a continuous cycle.
